

Alive in Hope Foundation and New York Bank of Mellon Networking Reception is a Success!

On Wednesday, October 1 the Alive in Hope Foundation and the Bank of New York Mellon (BONYM) partnered to host a Catholic School Networking Event in the exclusive 49th Floor Boardroom at the Bank's central location, One Wall Street. The evening began with a welcome by Mr. Brian Ruane, Executive Vice President of Financial Institutions at the BONYM, and included an opening by Monsignor Bracken, introduction by Craig Katinas, and an astute Economic Overview by Mr. Richard Hoey, Chief Economist of BONYM. Marion Boteju, Director of Operations and Programs, delivered poignant closing words about the Alive in Hope Foundation's work in the communities of Brooklyn and Queens.

The Alive in Hope Foundation would like to thank Mr. Ruane and all at the BONYM for graciously hosting the event. A special thanks to the Alive in Hope Foundation Networking Committee, who worked to make their first event a success. And of course, a resounding thanks to all who joined us that evening – new and old friends alike.

The next networking event is scheduled for Spring 2009. Details are forthcoming. For more information about the Foundation and the networking event, please e-mail us at info@aliveinhope.org or call us at 718-965-7375.
